Alpine Thunder

When The K<sup>B</sup> Class Ruled The Midland Line

Jonathan Shingleton

The complete story of NZR's most powerful conventional steam locomotive class covering the manufacture, bedding-in, daily operation, booster operation, maintenance, availability, performance, and operations on the Dunedin – Oamaru section and south from Christchurch. Also included are liberal accounts from firemen, drivers and fitters about crewing and maintaining the K<sup>B</sup> class. The book is well-illustrated and includes diagrams and a map of the Midland Line from Springfield to Arthur's Pass. Hard cover, 272 pages, 157 black & white and 55 colour photographs.

Riding With Ces Gledhill

1925-1952

Edited by Bill Prebble

Starting as a cleaner at Auckland in 1925, Ces worked his way around New Zealand seeking better wages and promotion, working his way up through the ranks from cleaner, to fireman and eventually first-class engine driver. He recounts with interest his time living at the various towns and cities, working on both isolated sections, branch lines and on main trunk trains. Told with passion are many of his memorable footplate escapades on both North and South Island lines. This book is well illustrated with images of the period, many taken by the author while working on the job.

The Kaikoura Job

Rebuilding KiwiRail's Main North Line

Rob Merrifield

The magnitude 7.8 that struck the Kaikoura region caused the most devastation to the rail and highway network known in New Zealand modern times. A critical lifeline, KiwiRail set about the huge task of rebuilding the railway, tunnels and bridges. Rob Merrifield treats us to an in-depth account of the devastation and rebuild, complimented with stunning images. Card covers, 134pp, 22 black & white and 97 colour photographs plus 4 maps.

A West Coast Engineman

Ian Tibbles

Ian takes us on a journey about the West Coast as a Greymouth-based NZR fireman from 1962 to 1970. Relieving at the various West Coast depots, Ian provides insight on what it was like “getting down the road” on the various lines and classes of engines. The vagaries of narrow grate engines through to the “modern” J class are all discussed. Covering the golden age of steam on the Coast, without doubt this is a book for lovers of NZR steam in the 60’s. Card covers, 251 pp, 163 black & white and 99 colour photographs, track plan, 2 maps and diagrams.
